

1 UNITED STATES BANKRUPTCY COURT
2 DISTRICT OF DELAWARE
3

4 In re: :
5 : Chapter 11
6 TRITEK INTERNATIONAL INC., : Case No. 23-10520 (TMH)
7 et al., : (Jointly Administered)
8 Debtors. :
9 _____ :

10
11 United States Bankruptcy Court
12 824 North Market Street
13 Wilmington, Delaware
14 October 5, 2023
15 11:03 a.m. - 1:20 p.m.
16
17
18
19 20

21 B E F O R E :
22 HON THOMAS M. HORAN
23 U.S. BANKRUPTCY JUDGE
24

25 ECRO OPERATOR: JERMAINE COOPER

1 HEARING re Debtors' Objection to the Proof of Claim of 2 Headwaters Development, LLC [Docket No. 365 - filed August 3 17, 2023]
4

5 HEARING re Motion of Headwaters Development, LLC Pursuant to 6 Bankruptcy Rule 3018(a) for Estimation and Temporary 7 Allowance of Claims for Purposes of Voting to Accept or 8 Reject the Plan [Docket No. 450- filed September 13, 2023]
9

10 HEARING re Motion of Debtors for Entry of an Order (I) 11 Approving the Combined Disclosure Statement and Joint 12 Chapter 11 Plan on an Interim Basis for Solicitation 13 Purposes Only; (II) Establishing the Solicitation and 14 Tabulation Procedures; (III) Approving the Form of Ballots
15 and Solicitation Materials; (IV) Establishing the Plan
16 Confirmation Schedule; and (V) Granting Related Relief
17 [Docket No. 297 - filed July 20, 2023]
18

19 HEARING re Debtors' Motion for Entry of an Order Authorizing 20 the Debtors to Exceed the Page Limit Requirement for the 21 Debtors' Memorandum of Law in Support of an Order Confirming 22 the Second Amended Joint Plan of Debtors Under Chapter 11 of 23 the Bankruptcy Code [Docket No. 483 - filed October 2, 2023]
24

25 Transcribed by: Sonya Ledanski Hyde

1 A P P E A R A N C E S :

2

3 POTTER ANDERSON & CORROON LLP

4 Attorneys for the Debtors

5

6 BY: MARIA KOTSIRAS

7 L. KATHERINE GOOD

8

9 KATTEN MUCHIN ROSENMAN

10 Attorneys for the Debtors

11

12 BY: JERRY HALL

13 MICHAEL COMERFORD

14 ALLISON YAGER

15

16 UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE

17 Attorneys for the U.S. Trustee

18

19 BY: JULIET M. SARKESSIAN

20

21 SAUL EWING LLP

22 Attorneys for Committee

23

24 BY: LUCIAN BORDERS MURLEY

25

1 DECHERT LLP

2 Attorneys for Committee

3

4 BY: DOUGLAS MANNAL

5

6 STINSON LLP

7 Attorneys for Compeer Financial

8

9 BY: ANDREW J. GLASNOVICH

10

11

12

13

14

15

16

17

18

19

20

21

22

23

24

25

1 P R O C E E D I N G S

2 CLERK: All rise.

3 THE COURT: Please be seated. Hello, Ms. Good.

4 MS. GOOD: Good morning, Your Honor. Katie Good, 5 Potter Anderson & Corroon, on behalf of Tritex International 6 and its affiliated debtors and debtors in possession. We 7 are here today with one item going forward on our agenda,
8 Item Number 3, Confirmation of the Debtor's Combined
9 Disclosure Statement and Plan of Liquidation.

10 I'm joined in the courtroom today by my co-counsel
11 Jerry Hall, Michael Comerford and Allison Yager of Katten
12 Muchin & Rosenman, our witness, Brian Koluch, 13 PricewaterhouseCoopers, and my colleague Maria Kotsiras.

14 We know Your Honor was on the bench all day
15 yesterday and into the evening. So, without stealing too 16 much of Mr. Hall's thunder, I am pleased to report that we 17 have narrowed the issues significantly -- very significantly 18 from the last time we were before Your Honor on the 19 disclosure statement hearing in August, and even more since 20 the filings that we made on Monday. I believe we really 21 only have one remaining contested item.

22 So, with that, I'll turn the podium over to Mr.
23 Hall to give the Court a further update on the settlements
24 that we've reached, the remaining open issues and walk 25 through the initial presentation.

1 THE COURT: Great. Thank you, Ms. Good. Mr.
2 Hall, good to see you. Good morning.

3 MR. HALL: Good morning, Your Honor. Jerry Hall,
4 Katten Muchin Rosenman, for the debtors. As Ms. Good said, 5 we're here today seeking confirmation of the plan and final 6 approval of the disclosure statement, for which the Court
7 gave provisional approval back in August. And also, as Ms.
8 Good said, we are pleased to be here seeking confirmation of 9 a nearly fully consensual -- there is one outstanding issue 10 that will be argued in actions -- Good will argue it for the 11 debtors, and that is the third party release issue, which I 12 mentioned Your Honor anticipated. But every other matter 13 outstanding, all objections have been resolved. I'm just 14 going to walk very quickly through that.

15 We're, again, super-happy that this happened. We 16 basically have two significant settlements to report in 17 addition to the resolution of sort of one-off objections.
18 The two significant settlements, one of which already 19 happened, was the settlement that Your Honor approved back 20 in August between the committee, Compeer and the debtors, 21 Compeer being the secured lender in this case. That sort of 22 set up the foundation for us to move forward to a plan.

23 The second settlement which really has come 24 together fully and finally in the past, say, ten minutes, 25 but as a practical matter came together last Friday, and

1 that settlement has sort of three interdependent components.
2 The first is the committee is now supporting the plan. They 3 have not filed an objection and they are not going to 4 object. They are actually supporting the plan including the 5 debtor's release of claims against the directors and 6 officers. In exchange, the committee is going to receive 7 $500,000 for the benefit of general unsecured creditors and 8 a professional fee concession, all of which is already 9 reflected in the plan. The professional fee concession is 10 among Dechert, Katten and PWC. And this is just a way of 11 ensuring that we remain under the professional fee cap, 12 which was part of the Compeer creditor committee stipulation
13 back in August.

14 Additionally, the committee's going to be the 15 beneficiary of the Strobel settlement, which, when the time
16 comes, Your Honor, I'm going to ask to introduce the Strobel 17 settlement into evidence along with the declarations that we 18 filed thus far. And that settlement creates significant 19 value to the estate and it involves contributions from non-20 debtors, specifically, High Life, which is sort of a 21 grandparent of the debtors, is going to be paying Strobel
22 approximately $730,000. And just to be clear, I'm 23 approximating. I don't want my words to be misinterpreted.
24 The documents will govern.

25 But Strobel will also be pursuing a PASA claim,

1 which they had previously filed. In exchange, Strobel is 2 supporting the plan by changing its vote from reject to 3 accept. They are opting into, if you will, the third-party
4 releases. And perhaps most significantly for the committee
5 deal that we struck, they've agreed to waive distribution
6 participation. And because of the collective deal of all 7 the parties, we estimate that Strobel's waiver will be worth 8 something in the neighborhood of $850,000, maybe $900,000, 9 in actual distributed funds to the remaining creditors.

10 And then, finally, the debtors and Headwaters had 11 been engaged in some motions and objections practice. We 12 have resolved all of that. The most significant upside to 13 that result is probably avoiding spending substantial 14 professional fees litigating, and taking evidence, and 15 discovery and what have you over those issues.

16 And so, again, we're super-pleased. This is a 17 great result for the case. That's not to say that people 18 aren't disappointed. This is by no means a full-pay case.
19 but that being said, 11-14 percent, which is what we're 20 projecting for general unsecured creditors is a far cry 21 better than the outcomes that we would've faced if we had to 22 finish our discovery with the committee, pursue a contested 23 plan -- assuming that would even get confirmed, the 24 distributions would be much lower. And, for what it's 25 worth, obviously, in our view, much better than a

1 liquidation, which the liquidation analysis that we've 2 already filed as a claim supplement supports.

3 So, again, largely uncontested relief. I want to 4 thank the lenders, and the committee, and everyone else that 5 was involved in getting us here. It was a lot of 6 creativity, very constructive engagements even when people 7 were at their most stressed and maybe short tethers.

8 As we noted in the agenda, we did receive a formal 9 objection from the United States Trustee's Office. That 10 remains unresolved as to the one piece, which is the third 11 party it releases. It is resolved as to exculpation and the 12 debtors, the estate releases. We also received a formal 13 objection from creditor Dakota Plains. That is also 14 resolved. They will not be pressing that objection.

15 We received an objection from the Fire Group, 16 which we resolved by adding language to the plan, which is 17 already on file. And then we also received informal 18 comments from the Texas controller and we incorporated 19 language into the plan. And my colleague, Mr. Comerford, 20 will walk through the plan and the confirmation order, 21 specifically the changes, to bring Your Honor more fully up 22 to speed. I'm just giving you the overview. All these 23 modifications were of negligible impact on other parties.
24 Specifically, no financial -- direct financial impact on 25 creditors.

1 So, with that, Your Honor, I'd like to move
2 admission of a couple of declarations, five of them exactly,
3 and the Strobel settlement document, which was signed 4 yesterday, I believe.

5 THE COURT: Okay.

6 MR. HALL: So, as to the declarations, we have two 7 declarations of Brian Koluch of PWC and those were filed at 8 Dockets 486 and 495, and those were in support of the plan.

9 THE COURT: Okay, you're moving those in? Okay.

10 MR. HALL: Please, Your Honor.

11 THE COURT: Okay, okay. Does anybody objection to 12 the admission of Mr. Koluch's declarations? Okay, I hear no 13 response. Does anybody wish to cross-examine Mr. Koluch?

14 MS. SARKESSIAN: Your Honor, if I may just make a 15 statement?

16 THE COURT: Yes, of course. Good morning, Ms.
17 Sarkessian.

18 MS. SARKESSIAN: Good morning, Your Honor. How 19 are you this morning?

20 THE COURT: Very well. Thank you.

21 MS. SARKESSIAN: I think this is the first time
22 I'm before Your Honor. It's a pleasure.

23 THE COURT: It is. It's good to see you.

24 MS. SARKESSIAN: It may be the last because I'm 25 retiring soon.

1 THE COURT: So I hear.

2 MS. SARKESSIAN: And hopefully we'll make this a 3 good one. I rise just to state that we have resolved the 4 issue of the debtor releases, which is what I view these 5 declarations to be -- it's not the only thing, of course, 6 but as far as the items that the U.S. Trustee objected to.
7 There's more towards the debtor releases. I understand from 8 debtor's counsel that if Your Honor determines that the 9 third party releases in this case are not consensual, that 10 they are not going to argue that they meet the requirements 11 of continental and can be approved in that manner.

12 And I bring that up because if they were going to 13 pursue that, there may be some information in these 14 declarations that would be relevant to that issue. But I 15 don't believe there's anything in the declarations that are 16 relevant to whether or not these releases are consensual.
17 It's really a legal argument. So, for that reason I'm not - 18 - won't be cross-examining the witness. But if for some 19 reason the debtors change their mind and they're going to 20 pursue non-consensual third-party releases, then of course I 21 would reserve my right to cross-examine the witness at that 22 time.

23 THE COURT: Understood. And that's just fine. I
24 appreciate that.

25 MS. SARKESSIAN: Okay, thank you, Your Honor.

1 THE COURT: Okay, well, with that, Mr. Koluch's 2 declarations are admitted.

3 (Mr. Koluch's Declarations Admitted into Evidence)

4 MR. HALL: Thank you, Your Honor. Mr. Mannal will 5 tell you I change my mind all the time but not on this. We 6 are not going to be coming back to make the argument that 7 Ms. Sarkessian raised.

8 THE COURT: Okay.

9 MR. HALL: I'd also like to introduce Mr.
10 Lazaruk's declaration. That's at Docket Number 480 also in 11 support of the plan.

12 THE COURT: Does anybody object to the admission
13 of Mr. Lazaruk's declaration?

14 MR. HALL: It'll be the same circumstances for the 15 U.S. Trustee, I believe, and we will acknowledge we're not 16 going to be arguing that. We satisfy nonconsensual 17 standards.

18 MS. SARKESSIAN: That actually wasn't a point.

19 MR. HALL: Oh, sorry, sorry. That's right. He is 20 not present today to be cross-examined. He's actually up in 21 Winnipeg. But I understand that nobody intends to cross-22 examine him so hopefully that won't be an issue.

23 THE COURT: Okay. I'll ask the question again.
24 Does anybody object to the admission of Mr. Lazaruk's 25 declaration? Okay, I hear no response. It is admitted.

1 (Mr. Lazaruk's Declaration Admitted into Evidence)

2 THE COURT: Does anybody wish to cross-examine Mr.
3 Lazaruk? Okay. No response, which is good news.

4 MR. HALL: And then, lastly, Your Honor, we have 5 John Burlacu -- and I may be mispronouncing the last name -- 6 of Donlin Recano. He has two declarations, one of which was 7 the original for voting tabulation purposes and the other 8 was to disclose nonvoting parties who also opted out of the 9 releases. That was at the request of the U.S. Trustee.
10 Those are at Docket Numbers 479 and 490.

11 THE COURT: Okay. Does anybody object to the 12 admission of Mr. Burlacu's declarations? Okay, I hear no 13 response. The declarations are admitted.

14 (Mr. Burlacu's Declarations Admitted into 15 Evidence)

16 THE COURT: Does anybody wish to cross-examine Mr.
17 Burlacu? Okay, there's no response.

18 MR. HALL: Okay. And then, lastly, from an 19 evidentiary standpoint, Your Honor, I have copies of the 20 settlement that the debtors and others reached with Strobel
21 parties. And if I may, I will bring one up for the law clerk 22 and for yourself and then distribute to whoever else wants 23 them.

24 THE COURT: Okay. My law clerk is actually 25 sitting in the gallery so I'm just going to ask him to go up

1 to the rail and grab a copy of that for me, please.

2 MR. HALL: Thank you. And, Your Honor, if I may 3 approach?

4 THE COURT: Yes, please do.

5 MR. HALL: And, Your Honor, relevant for our 6 purposes today, or at least primarily relevant, are 7 Paragraphs 9 and 10 on Page 7 of the Strobel document. But 8 in any event, Your Honor, I'd like to offer this into 9 admission. It is a piece -- it is, you know, the formal 10 piece of support for the plan overall and the settlement 11 that we reached with the committee that enables us to go 12 forward on this basis. And there are a couple left over if 13 anybody wants. But these reflect that the Strobel parties 14 are agreeing to support the plan, change their vote to yes
15 and waive distribution in the Class 4 General Unsecured 16 Class.

17 THE COURT: Okay. Does anybody object to the 18 admission of the document entitled Cash Settlement Agreement 19 and Mutual Global Release Among the Strobel Parties, the 20 High Life Parties and Patrick (indiscernible)? Okay, I hear 21 no response, it is admitted.

22 (Cash Settlement Agreement Admitted into Evidence)

23 MR. HALL: Thank you, Your Honor. I think to 24 round out the record, Your Honor, we filed a plan
25 supplement, two iterations, one at Docket Number 458 and one

1 at Docket Number 481. This provides, among other things, 2 the liquidating trust agreement. It designates Matthew 3 Dundin as liquidating trustee and sets forth retained causes
4 of action and the wind-down budget. The liquidation
5 analysis that we included with the plan shows that the plan 6 satisfies the Best Interest of Creditors Test. It's also 7 supported by Mr. Koluch's two declarations. The global 8 settlement, also described in the Koluch declaration, and 9 the fourth amended plan provides the funding necessary to 10 satisfy funding and feasibility under the plan. There would 11 be no obligation for the level of funding provided in the 12 plan if such claims were asserted in connection with a 13 Chapter 7 liquidation.

14 As reflected in the voting declaration, now
15 submitted into evidence, Donlin Recano sent solicitation 16 packages and ballots in accordance with the Court's order.
17 Pursuant to the Court's order, the voting deadline and 18 deadline to object were set at September 28th. And as Your 19 Honor has probably seen in the voting declaration, the 20 impaired classes that were entitled to vote, which are 21 Classes 3 and 4, overwhelmingly voted to accept the plan.

22 And I'm happy to walk through, Your Honor, if you 23 would like, the 1123-1129 factors. But given that there's 24 no issue concerning them, no objections related to them and 25 the briefing and declarations fully and obviously support

1 them, I would propose to the Court that I not do that and 2 spare everybody, including the Court, the time it would take 3 to do so.

4 THE COURT: Yeah, I think those issues were 5 adequately briefed. I just do have one question for you.

6 MR. HALL: Yes, Your Honor?

7 THE COURT: The Dakota Plains objection did raise 8 the 1129(a)(7) issue but you say that that's been resolved?

9 MR. HALL: That is correct, Your Honor.

10 THE COURT: Are you able to share what the nature 11 of the resolution was?

12 MR. HALL: Oh, absolutely, Your Honor. They are 13 standing down from the objection. There was no 14 accommodation. Basically, we explained to them what our 15 argument would be and that, in our view -- and I think Mr.
16 Comerford did this persuasively -- that they would actually 17 be worse off if they were to press the objection and 18 prevail. So, they took that back internally and caucused 19 and determined that they agreed with it and are, for that 20 reason, standing down.

21 THE COURT: Fine. That's great. Thank you. So, 22 yes, no need to go through argument on those two Code 23 sections.

24 MR. HALL: Perfect, Your Honor. Then with that, 25 what I would say is we have maybe two sort of sections left,

1 neither of which is going to be. The first is the argument
2 on third party releases. And what I would propose is allow 3 the U.S. Trustee to argue first since the issues have 4 already been briefed and the Court understands these issues 5 very, very well. So, instead of having three rounds of 6 argument, just two. The U.S. Trustee can have the first 7 word, we'll take the last. And then after that, Mr.
8 Comerford will walk the Court through both the plan and the 9 confirmation order so that Your Honor has all of the current 10 changes, some of which are not reflected on the docket 11 already.

12 THE COURT: Okay. Thank you, Mr. Hall.

13 MR. HALL: Thank you, Your Honor.

14 MS. SARKESSIAN: Again, Your Honor, for the 15 record, Juliet Sarkessian on behalf of the U.S. Trustee.
16 Your Honor, just so you know, this is water, not coffee. I 17 say that because I think it would be rude for me to be 18 drinking coffee up here but I do need to occasionally sip 19 some water.

20 So, Your Honor, so there were three items. There 21 are a few provisions in the plan that the U.S. Trustee had 22 objected to: Third party releases, which is releases by 23 non-debtors in favor of other non-debtors; there's the 24 debtor releases and the exculpations. The debtors have made 25 changes to the plan that resolve our issue with respect to

1 the debtor releases and the same with respect to 2 exculpation. There's one additional small change -- cleanup
3 change, I guess, that needs to be made. I understand that 4 will be done before it's submitted.

5 MR. HALL: It will, Your Honor.

6 THE COURT: Okay.

7 MS. SARKESSIAN: So, those two issues are resolved
8 and we are left with the third party release issue. So, the 9 plan extinguishes direct claims that creditors and 10 administrative claimants hold against non-debtor parties 11 without the affirmative consent of the party supposedly 12 giving the release. These are not derivative claims. Any 13 claims that a creditor holds against non-debtor parties that 14 are derivative of the debtors are already being released
15 through the debtor release provision. So, you don't need a 16 third party release for that. The third party release
17 really covers -- I mean, yes, it also covers derivative 18 claims but that's already being separately released by the 19 debtors. So, it's really only relevant to direct claims 20 they may have against the numerous non-debtor parties.

21 And the released parties here are -- it does 22 include the debtors and the estates. That's one for the 23 released parties. The prepetition agent and the prepetition 24 lenders, the DIP lender, the committee and each of its 25 members, the liquidating trustee, who is not yet appointed,

1 and then all of the related parties of all of those parties
2 that I just mentioned.

3 And I think it's worth noting that the claims 4 against the -- the claims that any creditors would hold 5 against the prepetition lenders are governed by the DIP
6 financing order. And somebody can correct me if I'm wrong 7 but I believe the period to object to those claims has 8 expired. So, again, I don't know that any further release 9 is needed in that regard.

10 With respect to the liquidating trustee being a 11 released party, the release only goes through the effective 12 date of the plan. So, they're not even appointed until the 13 effective date, so that release to me seems to be 14 meaningless. With respect to the release of the committee, 15 and their members, and their professionals, well, they're 16 all getting exculpations so -- in which the Third Circuit in 17 PWS said that's what they're entitled to. And then, of 18 course, you have related parties that would include, for 19 example, the professionals of the debtors who, again, are 20 already entitled to exculpation and that is the only thing 21 they're entitled to.

22 A release of claims is a significant action.
23 Outside of the world of bankruptcy, releases are almost 24 always documented in writing that is signed by the person or 25 entity that's giving the release. Releases are not implied

1 by silence in response to something sent by mail that may or 2 may not have reached the destination, may or may not have 3 gotten to them on time, for which the recipient may or may 4 not have understood. And as far as understanding the 5 releases, Your Honor, if you look at the third party
6 release, it's comprised of two paragraphs: Each paragraph 7 is one very long sentence. The first paragraph is one 8 sentence that's 17 lines and the second paragraph is one 9 sentence that's 12 lines. It is dense legalese even for 10 lawyers to read through it, even for bankruptcy lawyers to 11 read through it.

12 And then embedded in those provisions, those two 13 paragraphs, are numerous defined terms including the defined 14 term of releasing party, which is actually quite 15 complicated, and the defined term of released parties. And 16 then those defined terms, in turn, embed other defined terms 17 such as related parties. So, it's sort of a set of 18 interlocking boxes that, you know -- frankly, if you have a 19 creditor who is an individual person, who's not a lawyer, or 20 it's a small business, understanding these complicated 21 provisions would not be easy and they may not have the means 22 to pay a lawyer to read this and explain it to them.

23 And while creditors I think -- as a general
24 proposition, people in the United States understand that 25 hey, if a company files for bankruptcy or a person files for

1 bankruptcy and they owe you money, you're going to get maybe 2 something less than what you're owed at some point in time 3 and then after that, you're not going to be able to sue that 4 person or entity anymore because they're going to get a 5 discharge or some other similar relief through the 6 bankruptcy.

7 What I think most people would never think of is 8 that through that bankruptcy process their direct claims 9 against others that have not filed for bankruptcy are 10 somehow going to be released. That is not what people -- 11 you know, when you think about bankruptcy, that's not the 12 purpose of bankruptcy, right? The purpose of bankruptcy is 13 for the debtor to get a discharge. And I mean, this is 14 assuming you understand anything about bankruptcy at all.

15 So, the idea that if a ballot does not get 16 returned -- you know, a ballot is sent out, a solicitation 17 is sent out in a package to a general unsecured creditor, 18 it's not returned, that that somehow means that they have 19 consented. That they got the package, that they got it 20 timely, that they read it, that they understood it or they 21 had the means to pay a lawyer to explain it to them and they 22 therefore could say, oh, you know what? I'm either going to 23 vote or not vote and I'm going to check the opt out box and 24 send it back and make sure that, you know, I send it by 25 FedEx so that it gets to the claims agent (indiscernible)

1 with no chance that on the way back in the mail it somehow
2 gets delayed. You know, that is not possibly the reality
3 for many people.

4 Now, if you look at the balloting report, the 5 balloting agent received 34 ballots from the general
6 unsecured creditors. I understand from committee counsel
7 that there are approximately 400 general unsecured creditors
8 in these cases. Now, the balloting report did show that 12 9 of these solicitation packages came back as undeliverable.
10 So, if you subtract that out and you subtract out the 34 11 ballots that received it, that means there's 354 general 12 unsecured creditors that did not send in a ballot. And 13 under the opt out process that's being proposed in the plan, 14 they have all consented -- they were deemed to consent to 15 release direct claims against non-debtor parties.

16 Now, the other group of creditors that are 17 affected are unimpaired -- you have unimpaired creditors in 18 Classes 1 and 2. So, you have classified unimpaired
19 creditors, which are secured creditors other -- Class 1 I 20 think is secured creditors other than the prepetition
21 lenders; Class 2 is nontax priority claims. So, they too 22 would have their direct claims against non-debtors stripped 23 from the plan. And these claims that are covered by the 24 release are far broader than the claim on which they are 25 unimpaired and going to be paid in full.

1 Then you also have unimpaired claimants who are 2 unclassified, so the admins and the priority tax. We have 3 all the same issues with them but with the additional issue
4 that they did not get any way to opt out. So, the -- I'm 5 sorry, I should've mentioned the classified Classes 1 and 2
6 creditors, when they received their notice, it did have a 7 box they could check to opt out and send it back. But that 8 was -- and I got confirmation from the debtors -- that was 9 not sent to admin creditors or priority tax, so they didn't 10 even have that ability to do that.

11 And, by the way, I mean, as we all know, the Code 12 provides that in order to get a plan confirmed, 13 administrative creditors and priority tax have to be paid in 14 full. So, it's not like they're getting any additional 15 consideration for giving these releases to non-debtors. By 16 being paid in full, they have to be paid in full or there's 17 no plan to confirm. So, it's not like they're getting an 18 extra gift of any kind.

19 THE COURT: But if the releases that they're 20 proposing to grant are releases only in connection with the 21 Chapter 11 cases and they've been paid in full, then what 22 other additional damages might they have?

23 MS. SARKESSIAN: So, it's not -- it's any claim 24 that has any connection to the debtor. And the way that 25 it's written is, you know, any claim that has any connection

1 to the debtor, comma, the Chapter 11 cases, comma, the plan
2 process, comma. You start -- stop at connection to the 3 debtor, that is a full phrase. So, the example that we gave 4 in the objection was -- so you have a taxing authority, 5 okay? And you could have a situation in which they go after 6 a released -- a party that is released under the plan, and 7 they had income that they derived from transactions with the 8 debtor. Well, they could -- I mean, technically, under the 9 way that the plan is written, they could argue taxing 10 authority, you have released us from any claims that had any 11 connection to the debtor. And this has a connection to the 12 debtor. We got income, we did business, we got money from 13 the debtor. This is a release from anything up through the 14 effective date.

15 Another example would be an employee. An employee
16 who says -- because employees of the debtor are released 17 parties as well -- I don't have to pay tax on my salary from 18 the debtor, I got a release. You could have a secured 19 creditor who is unimpaired because they're -- now we're 20 going to classified route -- a secured creditor who's 21 unimpaired because they're getting their collateral back.
22 But say they have a deficiency claim, and say they have a 23 guarantee from a non-debtor affiliate to pay the full 24 amount. They're releasing that.

25 So, again, because it's so broad -- if it was

1 limited to you're releasing any claims against the released
2 parties for the claim upon which you're being paid in full, 3 that'd be another story. But that's not it. It's very,
4 very broad. It just has to have any connection whatsoever
5 to the debtor, and that's the issue with the unimpaired
6 creditors.

7 And, in addition, with respect to the admin
8 creditors and the priority tax, they don't even get the form
9 where they can check a box or return it. Now, the debtors 10 say well, they can "opt out by filing an objection." In 11 this district that's not what opt out means. Opt out means 12 you get a form, it's relatively -- you have to understand 13 it, but if you understand it, you check a box and you mail
14 it back. That's a lot different than retaining counsel, 15 paying counsel, they have to file an objection, they have to 16 show up in court to argue the objection. But that's not -- 17 the right to object is not an -- I'm using air quotes here - 18 - opt out. It's not. So that was -- at the very least they 19 should've gotten that but, of course, again, the U.S.
20 Trustee's position is that everything should be an opt in 21 when you're talking about releasing non-debtor parties.

22 In the brief that the debtors filed, they talked 23 about the mail rule. The mail, M-A-I-L. That if something 24 is sent in the mail that it's reasonable to expect that it 25 gets to the intended recipient and I guess does so timely.

1 Although I think the timely element when COVID started, 2 started to get a little bit different than what it was prior 3 to COVID and that continues to potentially be a problem.
4 But one of the things they argue is that well, if somebody 5 later on -- if it turns out that in at some point in the 6 future -- and, by the way, this is likely how it would 7 happen. You would have a party who's defined as a releasing 8 party who sues one of the non-debtor parties who's a 9 released party, and that party -- they'll be in state court 10 or in federal court, non-bankruptcy court, right, because 11 it's a claim of a non-debtor against a non-debtor. And that 12 non-debtor says -- picks up the plan, you released me. And 13 then the response would be I never got that solicitation 14 package. It never came to me.

15 So, the debtor's view is well, that's their burden
16 to prove that they'd never received the package. Well, I 17 don't know how you prove a negative. And that's a pretty 18 high burden of proof to avoid a non-debtor giving a release
19 of their direct claims against another on-debtor. I mean, 20 to have to prove -- I don't know how you prove that.

21 And, by the way, even if you did prove it, the 22 plan doesn't even make that an exception. I mean, it 23 doesn't say, but if the person can prove they didn't receive 24 it, then they didn't give a release. But I don't know how 25 you prove that.

1 Now, it is true that the definition of releasing 2 party does have an objection if a solicitation package was 3 sent out and it was returned to the debtor or their agent 4 and it said, you know, wrong address -- we ask for them to 5 do that at the disclosure statement stage. They did do that 6 and we are thankful. That's a good first step. But that 7 doesn't cover every way that -- that doesn't cover every 8 situation.

9 So, I'll give you an example. This morning, I 10 left my house. On my porch, the table on my porch is 11 sitting a package. It is not addressed to me and the 12 address is not my address; it's my next door neighbor's 13 address, so that's not too bad. I'll take that -- I didn't 14 do it this morning -- I'll take that package over to her.
15 I've gotten mail from people who live further down the 16 street, blocks away. I'm like, why is this even being 17 delivered to me? And, by the way, I love my postal -- she's 18 wonderful but something gets caught in the bottom of another 19 letter or whatever, who knows why? I get things all the 20 time. And I say to myself -- I mean, that's not something - 21 - that's not going to be returned to them. It may very well 22 have been addressed correctly, it's just not my address. It 23 was delivered incorrectly.

24 And I say, I'm going to go take that. The next 25 time I go down the street, I'll drop that up. And then more

1 mail comes in and it goes on top, and maybe I do and maybe I
2 don't. When that happens at a business, I don't know what 3 happens. When a business gets mail that's addressed to 4 someplace else with a different address, there's no way --
5 there's so many unknowns. So, just because a package 6 doesn't get returned back does not mean that it actually got 7 to the intended recipient or that it got to the intended 8 recipient timely. And that's the beautiful of affirmative 9 consent, is you know they got it, they saw it, they 10 understood and they're agreeing to it.

11 Now, talking a minute about the case law, from the 12 -- when you look at the Third Circuit, there's actually no
13 case from the Third Circuit that addresses what constitutes 14 consent. We have Continental, we have Millennial Labs, we 15 have Global Industries Tech from the Third Circuit that talk 16 about situations where there was no opt in, no opt out, 17 nothing. It was -- you know, I think everybody would agree 18 -- a nonconsensual release. Continental actually doesn't 19 say that that would ever be okay but it gives examples of 20 well, this might be okay if there's consideration or if it's 21 fair, etc. So, there's no guidance from the Third Circuit, 22 as Your Honor knows.

23 In our district, as I'm sure Your Honor's also 24 aware, Judge Walrath and Judge Owens require affirmative 25 consent for the release of direct claims against non-

1 debtors. We are hoping to persuade you to join their view.
2 We do understand that that is a minority view I this 3 district. There are also, of course, cases which we cited
4 from other districts that take the same view. And of course 5 there's Judge Walrath's Washington Mutual decision where she 6 makes it clear, you know, affirmative consent, that is not 7 just opting out. Opting out of a third party, but that does 8 not show whether or not somebody consents. And she says, 9 "Opt out mechanism is not sufficient to support the third 10 party releases, particularly with respect to parties who do 11 not return a ballot or who are not entitled to vote in the 12 first place," which are the two situations that we are 13 addressing here.

14 And Judge Walrath's ruling since then has been 15 consistent with that view of acquiring affirmative consent.
16 The exception she makes is if you vote in favor of the plan, 17 then it's okay to make it an opt out -- for that be to an 18 opt out. Though I think she recently said, it would be 19 better if it was an opt in. I think she's open to that.

20 Now, of course, Judge Owens' decision in Emerge, 21 the Court ruled similarly that a consented third party 22 release, "cannot be inferred by the failure of a creditor or 23 equity-holder to return a ballot or an opt out form." And 24 she reached this conclusion even though the Court
25 acknowledged that the opt out forms provided conspicuous

1 notice of how to opt out and the consequences of not doing
2 so. But the Court rejected the debtor's argument that 3 inferring consent from silence should be approved as 4 typical, customary or routine.

5 And Judge Owens said that failure to return an opt 6 out notice or a ballot could be due to "carelessness, 7 inattentiveness or mistake" rather than constituting a 8 manifestation of intent to give a third party release. And 9 then, of course, it could also be caused by the examples I
10 gave: Not getting the solicitation package or the opt out 11 form; not getting it on time; getting it, not understanding 12 it and not having the means to retain counsel.

13 Now, the debtors point out that Judge Owens has, 14 in some more recent cases, allowed opt outs to be used but 15 that has only been with respect to those who actually return 16 a ballot. So, the issue was if somebody votes to reject the 17 plan, do they also have to check the opt out box? And I 18 believe she does have a few rulings, bench rulings, that 19 allowed that. But they did not allow saying, oh, if you 20 don't get a ballot -- if a ballot doesn't come in at all,
21 we're going to assume that person consents. And also, same 22 thing for unimpaired parties. If they're unimpaired, they 23 don't get a ballot. She has not changed her view on that, 24 to my knowledge, and I try to track these decisions very 25 closely.

1 And, in fact, in the case of Ketner, which is 20-
2 12366, the judge, Judge Owens' rule on February 15, 2022
3 that there it was -- specifically she addressed unimpaired
4 creditors and said that releases cannot be imposed on them 5 without their affirmative consent. That is -- transcript is 6 at Docket 298, Pages 50-54.

7 I also want to mention, Your Honor, that the issue 8 about those who vote to reject whether them checking -- they 9 can be required to check an opt out box, that's actually not 10 an issue here because of the way that it's written. If you 11 reject the plan, you're not getting third party releases, 12 which we appreciate. This is -- I mean, you know, there 13 were a lot of changes made at the disclosure statement stage 14 that made this better than -- this is not the worst by far 15 that we've seen at this point. I mean, they definitely 16 tried to make some accommodations but you still have, again, 17 those two groups, especially those who are not returning 18 ballots at all, that were still deemed to be consenting to 19 releases.

20 Another -- I'm not sure that I'd say this was an 21 argument in the brief but the debtors referenced Section 22 1141 of the Code and I did want to address that 1141(a) of 23 the Code, which states that the provisions of a confirmed 24 plan bind the debtors any entity acquiring property under 25 the plan, any creditor, equity security holder or general

1 partner of the debtors. This provision does not address what 2 can be included in a plan; it addresses the effect of a plan 3 being concerned. The debtor -- and I bring this up, Your 4 Honor, because I've heard this sort of argument before -- is 5 well, a debtor put something in the plan. If it's 6 confirmed, that's it. A debtor can't just put anything in a 7 plan and say, oh, 1141, if it gets confirmed it's 8 enforceable.

9 And an example of that, which the Third Circuit 10 dealt with, was a plan cannot be enforced if, for example, 11 it treats property that does not belong to the debtor as 12 property of the estate. And that was the situation the 13 Third Circuit addressed in First Fidelity Bank v. McAteer, 14 985 F.2d, 114 from 1993. I did not cite that in our 15 objection. In fact, the debtor cited it and I thank the 16 debtor for citing that case in their objection. They cited 17 it as supporting the following proposition: "Other courts 18 have held that for a release to be consensual, the creditor
19 must have unambiguously manifested consent to the release 20 for the non-debtor from liability on its debt."

21 Now, that was a quote from another case. Arrow?
22 Arrow something. But they then cited that First Fidelity 23 Bank is supporting that view. So, I'm going to talk a 24 little bit about that case because I did not address it. I 25 will be doing so in future objections but I did not address

1 that. That was a Chapter 13 case. So, the debtor purchased 2 a truck through an installment contract that was assigned to 3 a bank. And then the debtor purchased an insurance policy 4 naming the bank as the primary beneficiary. And then the 5 debtors -- his estate -- this is before filing for 6 bankruptcy -- the estate as secondary. And then the policy
7 provided that if the debtor died, the insurance company 8 would pay the bank back any amount remaining on this 9 installment car loan.

10 Then this individual and his wife filed for 11 Chapter 13. And then the bank's claim was crammed down to 12 the fair market value of the collateral plus 20 percent of 13 the unsecured balance. And the bank did not object to the 14 plan.

15 After the plan was confirmed, the debtor -- the 16 husband died. The insurance company paid the bank the 17 amount that was due under the policy and then the wife moved 18 in the Bankruptcy Court to compel the bank to turn over to 19 the estate the insurance proceeds in excess of the amount 20 that was due to the bank under the confirmed plan. The 21 Bankruptcy Court granted the request. The District Court
22 affirmed, the Third Circuit reversed.

23 The Court indicated that to support its position, 24 the debtor relies on 11 USC 1337(a) which provides that "the 25 provisions of a confirmed plan bind the debtor and each

1 creditor." I quote this because this language is quite 2 similar to 1141(a). The Third Circuit then went on to say,
3 "While it is true that the Bankruptcy Court's confirmation 4 of the plan binds the debtor and all creditors vis-à-vis the 5 debtor, it does not follow that a discharge in bankruptcy
6 alters the rights of a creditor to collect from third 7 parties. Section 524(e) specifically limits the effect of a 8 discharge. It provides that discharge of a debt -- of the 9 debtor does not affect the liability of any other entity on, 10 or the property of any other entity for such debtor."

11 At the end of the opinion, the Third Circuit 12 summed up its ruling, and this is a quote but I'm going to 13 substitute like, the bank and the debtor instead of the 14 proper names. "The bank's interest in the proceeds of a 15 life insurance policy is not the property of the debtor's 16 estate and thus cannot be altered by confirmation of the 17 Chapter 13 plan. The confirmation of the debtor's Chapter 18 13 plan did not work to erase or alter the bank's rights as 19 a third party beneficiary to collect from the insurance 20 company."

21 So, that's all to say you can't just put something 22 in the plan and say 1141, got you. It's got to be 23 consistent with the Code and the bankruptcy rules. And I
24 think also relevant is the Third Circuit's opinion in PWS
25 Holdings, 228 F.3d, 224 from 2000. "Section 524(e) makes it

1 clear that a discharge in bankruptcy does not extinguish 2 claims by third parties against guarantors or directors and 3 officers of the debtor for the debt discharged in 4 bankruptcy."

5 And you can take that a step farther and say, 6 well, if it doesn't let you do it for the debt discharged in 7 bankruptcy, surely it doesn't allow you to extinguish claims 8 that weren't addressed in the bankruptcy -- claims that had 9 any connection to the debtor. So this, you know -- the plan 10 goes further than what the Court's talking about here to 11 extinguish claims that were not even -- potentially not even 12 addressed at all in the Bankruptcy Court because of the very 13 wide definition of what is a released claim.

14 So, Your Honor, since the debtors have indicated 15 that they are not going to make an argument that if Your 16 Honor finds that the releases are nonconsensual, the plan 17 should not be confirmed under the continental standard, if 18 Your Honor determines that the -- or any portion of the non-19 debtor releases are not consensual, then the plan cannot be 20 confirmed unless those releases are omitted or somebody 21 wants to reserve parties with an opt in. Of course, that's 22 always a possibility.

23 That's why we always bring this issue up, Your 24 Honor, at the disclosure statement stage, because we want to 25 make it clear we want to give -- you know, be on notice if

1 they want to change their minds and say, you know what, 2 let's do it as an opt in, they have that ability because, of 3 course, nobody wants to have to resolicit anything. But 4 here, again, given who is among the released parties, again, 5 prepetition lenders already got a release respectively 6 through the DIP financing order, the committee, their 7 members, the related parties -- the professionals of the 8 committee and the debtor, they're all getting exculpations.
9 So, release is a sort of extra icing on the top, I guess I 10 would say.

11 THE COURT: Well, is it duplicative? Is it the 12 same thing, effectively, or is it something additional?

13 MS. SARKESSIAN: So, the only -- I think the only 14 thing that's different is that, of course, exculpations make 15 exceptions for fraud, intentional misconduct, gross 16 negligence. Now, up until last night, the way I read the 17 third party release, there was an exception for known and 18 unknown claims in the third party release of fraud, 19 intentional misconduct, gross negligence or claims that 20 would come out of like, a criminal act. But last night, I 21 realized that it wasn't known and unknown; it's only unknown 22 claims. So, there's an exception for unknown claims but any 23 known -- I made that mistake, I can't even imagine what some 24 creditor would... I mean, I looked at it but sometimes 25 you're so used to seeing known and unknown, your brain puts

1 it there when it's not there.

2 So, what would be released would be any known 3 claims of fraud, intentional misconduct, gross negligence or 4 claims arising out of criminal acts of exculpated parties 5 because they're, I think, all or almost all of them would 6 also be a released party. So, that would be the extra.
7 And, again, those are things that exculpated parties are not 8 entitled to under PWS.

9 So, I think, Your Honor, in summary, the consent 10 of a non-debtor to release their direct claims against other 11 non-debtors needs something more than silence. It needs an 12 affirmative act like an opt in rather than an opt out. And 13 the U.S. Trustee would respectfully request this court to 14 join the view of Judge Walrath and Judge Owens in ruling 15 that affirmative consent is needed in that regard.

16 Your Honor, unless you have any further questions, 17 my argument is concluded.

18 THE COURT: No. I appreciate the argument. I 19 don't have any questions at this point.

20 MS. SARKESSIAN: Thank you.

21 THE COURT: Thank you.

22 MS. GOOD: Good afternoon, Your Honor. For the 23 record, Katie Good, Potter Anderson & Corroon. Just to 24 respond briefly to the U.S. Trustee's argument, I know we 25 briefed this issue extensively. The debtor's view is that

1 these releases are consensual based on precedent in this 2 jurisdiction from Judge Shannon, Indianapolis Downs, Judge 3 Goldblatt in Arsenal Intermediate Holdings, Judge Kerry in 4 Scansion, Judge Dorsey in Mallinckrodt and numerous other 5 eventual links that we cited in our memorandum.

6 We do acknowledge that there is a split of 7 authority on whether consent can be inferred from the 8 failure to act. One side of that split looks at contract 9 law and says you cannot infer silence to mean consent unless 10 there is a duty to act. That means you can't send a letter 11 out that says, hi, third party, you're going to buy my car 12 for this price unless you get back to me by this date -- if 13 I don't hear from you, I'll assume we have a good contract.

14 That's not what we're doing here. That's not the 15 factual situation that we're in. We are in the other -- the 16 factual system that the other side of the split notes.
17 We're in an adversarial system of justice of justice in 18 which the judge's primary role is to resolve disputes
19 presented by the parties. In that adversarial system, 20 parties can be bound by their inaction when they receive 21 notice and they fail to act.

22 As Judge Dorsey noted in Mallinckrodt, there is a 23 duty to speak in the context of court proceedings. In his 24 opinion in Arsenal Intermediate Holdings, Judge Goldblatt 25 started his analysis with the premises (sic) that the

1 functioning of the bankruptcy system generally depends on 2 requiring parties to object to the relief proposed in the 3 plan and come to court and raise their objections. He goes 4 on to highlight several other situations in bankruptcy
5 proceedings where the failure to act has consequences.
6 Those include default judgments, cure claims, bar dates, 7 consent to entry of final orders by Bankruptcy Courts and 8 there are others outside of the bankruptcy context. Class
9 actions. The failure to raise arguments at a certain point 10 in a proceeding or to plead certain claims at various points 11 in litigation.

12 So, we would urge the Court to side with the 13 majority here and conclude that where the notice is 14 prominent and conspicuous and parties have a fair 15 opportunity to opt out, that it is fair to have that release
16 be consensual, using the definition of consensual that Judge 17 Goldblatt notes in Arsenal Intermedia Holding, which is it's 18 consensual because no party has objected and no party has 19 opted out.

20 The U.S. Trustee raises the issue of parties not 21 receiving their mail because it's maybe been mis-delivered.
22 We did eliminate from the releasing parties at the 23 disclosure statement phase, our solicitation procedures 24 hearing phase, any party whose mailing was returned as 25 undeliverable. But the rest of her argument would entirely

1 gut longstanding precedent of the mailbox rule and undermine 2 the federal rules of procedure, which expressly permit
3 service by mail in many situations. If there are problems
4 with service by mail, those are problems that rulemaking
5 bodies will need to address, not problems that can be solved 6 in the context of this type of dispute.

7 With respect to the unimpaired claims, those 8 claims who are administrative and priority tax claims did 9 receive a confirmation hearing notice that expressly set 10 forth all of the relevant provisions regarding the releases, 11 including defined terms. It provided a place where those 12 creditors could go and receive the plan free of charge on 13 the claim's agent website or a number where they could call 14 and receive it if they wanted to review that further. And 15 it told them the procedure that they needed to follow in 16 order to elect not to be a releasing party, and that was to 17 object.

18 The parties who were unimpaired and who were 19 classified did receive a notice of nonvoting status. Those 20 parties had the ability on that notice to check an opt out 21 box and send it back, and our supplemental voting 22 declaration identifies the parties who did.

23 I think the example that the U.S. Trustee gives 24 with respect to some of the tax claims that an employee, for 25 example, would not have to pay income tax on wages received

1 from the debtors stretches the language in the plan a little 2 far. You know, and those taxing authorities regularly 3 receive notices in bankruptcy cases. They follow the 4 docket, they show up at the DIP hearing. We regularly put 5 language in DIP orders to preserve their rights, in sale 6 orders -- we get comments sometimes in the context of 7 confirmation and those parties are not here today. We have 8 not received any objections from them.

9 We made clear -- I know the U.S. Trustee noted 10 that these are dense documents but we tried to make them as 11 clear as possible. We put the language in bold, we added 12 language to each of the notices and the ballots saying that 13 a failure to -- or that an opt out would not impact a 14 distribution. So, we tried to make this easier to 15 understand for parties. I don't agree with her position 16 that if a creditor -- that a creditor may understand that 17 claims against the debtor are impacted but they may not 18 think about third party claims. This has certainly been an 19 item that is, A, existing, under precedent in this 20 jurisdiction, and has been a topic of news and debate in the 21 larger community, even outside of the bankruptcy community.
22 It's gotten a lot of attention due to numerous mass tort 23 cases.

24 We also did everything that we could to make 25 returning these opt out forms as easy as possible for

1 creditors. We made balloting online so creditors could 2 return those ballots online. All the creditors received
3 envelopes that were stamped and ready to go back. So, and I
4 Just want to note before I conclude here that I think Cutter
5 is an entirely different case. That plan did not include a 6 third party release. If it had, that could've been a very 7 different ruling. But because it did not include that, it's 8 very distinguishable from the factual situation that we have 9 here today.

10 And Judge Goldblatt noted in his decision in 11 Arsenal that if you start with the proposition that the 12 implication of the Third Circuit's suggestion that 13 nonconsensual releases may be authorized in exceptional 14 cases, that consensual third party releases then ought to be 15 noncontroversial. So, here we have made -- we have followed 16 the majority precedent. We have done our best to make these 17 releases clear and conspicuous to creditors and we would 18 urge the Court to follow the majority here and find that the 19 failure to respond and check an opt out box should be 20 implied consent to these releases.

21 THE COURT: Okay, I do have a question for you, 22 Ms. Good.

23 MS. GOOD: Yes?

24 THE COURT: Ms. Sarkessian raised the issue about 25 -- in the third party releases, the scope, and that there is

1 the exception for gross negligence, willful misconduct, 2 fraud, criminal acts, but only to the extent that those 3 claims are unknown. Why does it not extend to known claim 4 as well?

5 MS. GOOD: Your Honor, our view is that if 6 creditors know that they have these claims, they should opt 7 out and they should assert them. But if Your Honor were to 8 request that we make that change, we would certainly do so.

9 THE COURT: Okay. Thank you, MS. Good. Ms.
10 Sarkessian?

11 MS. SARKESSIAN: Your Honor, can I ask Ms. Good a 12 question?

13 THE COURT: Sure. Yeah, take a moment.

14 MS. GOOD: Yes, I think I referred to the wrong
15 case. I said Ketner and I was referring to First Fidelity 16 v. McAtter.

17 THE COURT: Okay.

18 MS. GOOD: My bad.

19 THE COURT: Understood, understood.

20 MS. GOOD: That was my poor notetaking.

21 Apologies.

22 THE COURT: That's okay.

23 MS. GOOD: Thank you.

24 THE COURT: Thank you for clarifying that for me.

25 MS. SARKESSIAN: Just one point that -- again, for

1 the record, Juliet Sarkessian for the U.S. Trustee.
2 Debtor's counsel mentioned there being some discussion in 3 the news about the idea that a bankruptcy case could result 4 in releasing non-debtors. She may be talking about the 5 Purdue case, which, of course, is before the Supreme Court.
6 And as she mentioned, it's a mass tort case. This is not a
7 mass tort case. I think this situation is different. I 8 think people are starting to hear in mass tort cases that 9 these types of things might happen. After the Supreme Court 10 rules, it might be different, but this is not a mass tort 11 case. And that's really my only comment.

12 THE COURT: Okay, okay. Anything else from the 13 debtors? Good afternoon.

14 MR. COMERFORD: Good afternoon, Your Honor.
15 Michael Comerford with Katten Muchin & Rosenman. I mean, 16 unless Your Honor would like to go in a different direction, 17 we could walk through the plan and the confirmation order 18 changes at this point obviously subject to however you'd 19 like to proceed.

20 THE COURT: Yeah, let's walk through the changes, 21 please.

22 MR. COMERFORD: Okay. So, I have tabbed copies
23 for you, if I can approach?

24 THE COURT: Okay. That's perfect. Yeah, thanks.
25 Got you, thank you.

1 MR. COMERFORD: So, I'll say it on the record.
2 So, what I handed up to you, Your Honor, is a redline of the 3 plan and this is on file. It's Docket Number 494. The 4 confirmation order that I'm going to walk you through is 5 marked against what we filed as proposed confirmation order
6 but this version has not been filed yet. If other people 7 would like a copy of it -- if you have copies that we can 8 hand out while I walk through this?

9 THE COURT: Okay, can we just make sure that Mr.
10 Coleman, my law clerk, has a copy? Thank you.

11 MR. COMERFORD: Is it all right with Your Honor if 12 we go through the plan first? Is that --

13 THE COURT: Yeah, let's go through the plan first, 14 please, Mr. Comerford.

15 MR. COMERFORD: Okay. I've marked every page that 16 has a change but I'm going to try to focus on the more 17 substantive changes, if that's okay?

18 THE COURT: Yeah, let's do that. Yeah.

19 MR. COMERFORD: So, that would take me to Page 6 20 of the redline where we inserted a new definition entitled 21 Contributing Directors and Officers. This goes to what my 22 colleague Mr. Hall was describing earlier where we now have 23 two different paragraphs for the debtor releases. So, we 24 have contributing directors and officers as part of that 25 paragraph where they are receiving the entirety of the 1 debtor release versus other parties that are getting the 2 debtor release with a carve out.

3 THE COURT: Okay.

4 MR. COMERFORD: Page 8, the Definition of the 5 Exculpated Parties. This is negotiated language with the 6 United States Trustee's Office that we reached agreement on.
7 But I will note that we are going to have to revise the plan 8 to address some of what Mr. Hall was discussing earlier in 9 terms of the resolution between the committee and Compeer.
10 We're also going to make a change here which was intended to 11 be made but just was an oversight. At the end here where it 12 says, and F, with respect to the foregoing clauses A and B, 13 each of their respective related parties... That's actually 14 not going to be part of the definition. That's going to 15 come out.

16 THE COURT: Okay.

17 MR. COMERFORD: Page 11. This Deletion of Letter 18 of Credit. That's going to go back into the plan as well as 19 part of the resolution reached between the committee and 20 Compeer. Page 12. Again, a new definition, Other Released 21 Parties. This was what we discussed and negotiated with the 22 United States Trustee's Office and goes back to the debtor 23 release changes that we made.

24 Pages 15 -- Page 15. This really starts on 14, I 25 apologize. So, the Definition of Related Parties. And then

1 the Definition of Released Parties and Releasing Parties.
2 These changes predominantly were from our discussion with 3 the United States Trustee's Office, and then we also had a 4 few clarifying changes just to fix a couple of typos that 5 were in there.

6 THE COURT: Okay.

7 MR. COMERFORD: Page 16. The definition at the 8 bottom is actually going to be reinserted. Similarly, on 9 Page 17, the Workers' Compensation Deductible Funds, that's 10 going to be reinserted into the plan. Page 18. At the 11 bottom, in Section 2.1, this speaks to the -- this is part 12 of the resolution, the global resolution with the creditors 13 committee in terms of how distributions will be made in 14 connection with general unsecured claims. There'll be the 15 one distribution for all -- all general unsecured claims 16 that were filed in the cases. Moving to -- Yeah?

17 THE COURT: We're introducing substantive
18 consolidation at the 11th hour. Should I have any concerns 19 that creditors haven't had an opportunity to weigh in on the 20 issue of substantive consolidation when the plan initially 21 stated we're not substantively consolidating the debtor's 22 estates?

23 MR. COMERFORD: I don't think so, Your Honor, 24 because I think it was something that was contemplated in 25 the context of the committee's settlement in terms of how

1 distributions would be made. And I think that the overall 2 impact from doing this is to the benefit of unsecured
3 creditors, to ensure that they get the highest and best
4 distribution that can be made available to them. And I 5 think, at the end of the day, what this is really doing is 6 just making this streamlined since all of this is being done 7 in connection with establishing a liquidating trust and 8 having a liquidating trustee oversee the pool of money 9 that's being set aside for the benefit of general unsecured
10 creditors.

11 And so that's ultimately what the impact is going 12 to be, and I think will benefit unsecured creditors. And,
13 obviously, if Mr. Mannal would like to speak to this, I'm 14 obviously happy to step aside for that.

15 THE COURT: Yeah, sure thing.

16 MR. MANNAL: Your Honor, Doug Mannal from Dechert
17 on behalf of the unsecured creditors committee. Your Honor, 18 it's substantive consolidation for distribution purposes 19 exclusively. And, as Mr. Comerford in advance of the 20 hearing in his conversations with the one objecting party 21 informed them, that they're better off with the substantive 22 consolidation for distribution purposes. Because the way
23 the settlement with Compeer works is a waiver of a 24 significant $70-plus million deficiency claim. And so what 25 this is premised on is a single distribution for unsecured

1 creditors.

2 And had that claim been asserted, the distribution
3 percentages to unsecured creditors being much less. So, I 4 think substantive consolidation for distribution purposes is 5 very appropriate here, as Mr. Comerford was able to convince 6 the one creditor an issue. So, by withdrawing that 7 objection I think it's evidence that this is the best way to 8 proceed.

9 THE COURT: Thank you.

10 MR. COMERFORD: Anything else on that, Your Honor?

11 THE COURT: Nothing else on that. Thank you, Mr.
12 Comerford.

13 MR. COMERFORD: You're welcome. This will take us
14 to Page 20 and 21 of the redline, which is really just -- it 15 states exactly what we were just talking about in terms of 16 how the distributions will work and states what the range of 17 recoveries will be for general unsecured creditors and a 18 revised claim amount for general unsecured claims, which 19 reflects the settlements that we've reached leading up to 20 confirmation with Strobel and other creditors.

21 THE COURT: Okay.

22 MR. COMERFORD: Page 32 of the line. That's non-23 substantive changes. It's really just addressing when the 24 committee's professionals were put in place. Page 35 of the 25 line. The paragraph entitled Committee Settlement. I think

1 these changes are, by in large, from the committee just to 2 clarify how the settlements that they've reached are being 3 implemented and the benefit that's being received by general
4 unsecured creditors from those settlements.

5 I am going to move to Page 48 of the redline. At 6 the top paragraph, it's really -- again, it's restating the 7 point about how distributions will be made in connection 8 with the limited consolidation for purposes of distribution.
9 Page 49 is a deletion with respect to avoidance actions was 10 included in the treatment section and it was taken out that 11 that's a committee comment, I believe.

12 Page 51 of the redline, Section 9.1. Again, this 13 is just reaffirming what we were just talking about in terms 14 of the consolidation for purposes of distributions by the 15 liquidating trust. Page 60 and 61 of the redline. This is 16 Section 9.10 entitled Distributions by Liquidating Trustee.
17 There was a paragraph that we took out here related to 18 Workers' Compensation. This actually is going to go back 19 into the plan. This is what was being discussed in the 30-20 45 minutes before the hearing.

21 THE COURT: Okay.

22 MR. COMERFORD: And that takes us to Page 69 and 23 70, which I believe these are the last changes to bring to 24 Your Honor's attention, but they go straight to what we were 25 talking about earlier with respect to the United States

1 Trustee's discussions with us and how we changed the 2 language in connection with exculpation and the releases by 3 the debtors. I'm happy to discuss that further if you'd 4 like, but otherwise, that was --

5 THE COURT: Yeah, I had the opportunity to read it
6 and I'm satisfied.

7 MR. COMERFORD: Okay.

8 THE COURT: Yeah, thank you.

9 MR. COMERFORD: So, that's the plan.

10 THE COURT: Okay.

11 MR. COMERFORD: Then I'll move to our confirmation 12 order. Do you have that in front of you, Your Honor?

13 THE COURT: I do.

14 MR. COMERFORD: Okay. So, on Page 2, we updated a 15 few things in terms of the additional declarations that we 16 filed and that were introduced into evidence earlier in this 17 hearing. I'll try to focus on the more substantive changes.
18 Page 8, there's a paragraph with respect to the plan 19 settlements that have been incorporated really just -- it's 20 language speaking to the reasonableness, the probability of 21 success and the good faith comprises that were reached in 22 connection with implementing them.

23 Page 10 of the redline. This is language again
24 that speaks to the limited consolidation for distribution 25 purposes. Page 11, Paragraph U, this relates to releases,

1 exculpation and injunction. This is language that was 2 negotiated with the United States Trustee just to be more
3 specific or artful as to what exactly each of the release 4 provisions is doing and the basis for it.

5 MS. SARKESSIAN: Your Honor, if I could just put 6 on the record -- Juliet Sarkessian for the U.S. Trustee.
7 This was with -- these changes were made with the idea that 8 if Your Honor ruled in favor of the third party releases.
9 Of course, we don't necessarily agree with the findings that 10 are here.

11 THE COURT: Yeah, I understand.

12 MS. SARKESSIAN: Thank you.

13 THE COURT: Thank you very much, Ms. Sarkessian.

14 MR. COMERFORD: Yes. We understand that, Your 15 Honor.

16 THE COURT: Great.

17 MR. COMERFORD: Page 13, just some language that 18 was deleted in the middle of the page there. That was a 19 comment from the United States Trustee's Office. Page 20, 20 Paragraph 7. This is just additional language that was put 21 in at the committee's request just to reflect what needs to 22 happen in terms of making the plan effective if it is 23 confirmed. Page 21. Again, this is a paragraph that was 24 inserted just with respect to approval of the settlements 25 that are contemplated in connection with the plan.

1 Page 22. We added a couple of sentences at the 2 committee's request with respect to the establishment of the 3 liquidating trust and Matthew Dundin, who will be the 4 liquidating trustee, and his compensation is set forth I the 5 liquidating trust agreement. And that speaks to approving 6 the terms of the liquidating trust agreement that was filed 7 as a plan supplement, and also the rights and powers that he 8 will have in connection with that agreement.

9 I'm going to move to Page 25 and 26. This is some 10 clarifying language that we added at the United States 11 Trustee's request, I believe, in terms of any contracts or 12 leases that are rejected in connection with the plan and 13 making sure that such parties receive information on how to 14 file their proof of claim properly.

15 And then moving to Page 27. This is 27, 28 and 16 29. This was the United States Trustee's request that since 17 we have the releases and exculpation already set forth in 18 the plan, in order to avoid confusion, since it's already 19 set forth in one place, not to have it in both places. So, 20 we agreed to do that. So, we just have a restatement that 21 they're -- where they're contained in the plan and that 22 they're approved.

23 And that would take us to Page 30, which is a 24 paragraph, Paragraph 27, that speaks to the dissolution of 25 the committee and the limited go-forward purposes that they

1 would have post-effective date. Page 32. There was a 2 Paragraph 32, Payment of Statutory Fees, that the United 3 States Trustee asked us to take out because it was either 4 duplicative or slightly inconsistent with what was already 5 in the plan. So, we agreed to take that out and just rely 6 on what's in the plan.

7 And then moving to Page 33. This is -- in 8 Paragraph 36, this is some language that we received from 9 the Texas comptroller with respect to some -- an issue they 10 had to ensure that the tax claim that they filed, which is I 11 think approximately $2,600, is addressed pursuant to the 12 plan and, if not, what they can do. And the last page of 13 the redline, Page 37, is a paragraph added -- in connection 14 with authorizing the debtor to consummate the plan subject 15 to the satisfaction of the conditions preceding in the plan.

16 THE COURT: Okay, thank you.

17 MR. COMERFORD: That's it for those two documents, 18 Your Honor.

19 THE COURT: Okay.

20 MR. COMERFORD: Absent any questions, that's all I 21 have.

22 THE COURT: I think Mr. Hall has a suggestion for 23 you.

24 MR. COMERFORD: Ah, yes. So, I still am done but 25 one other thing we thought would be helpful is to have the

1 creditors committee walk through a few changes that they 2 negotiated with the United States Trustee on the liquidating 3 trust agreement.

4 THE COURT: Sure.

5 MR. COMERFORD: This all happened since we filed
6 it. Thank you.

7 MR. MURLEY: Good afternoon, Your Honor. Luke
8 Murley of Saul Ewing, counsel to the committee. I have a 9 redline of the ADS file, if I can approach, Your Honor?

10 THE COURT: Yes, please. Thank you.

11 MR. MURLEY: Tabbed with our two changes.

12 THE COURT: You got it. Thank you very much, Mr.
13 Murley.

14 MR. MURLEY: Your Honor, the marked version you're 15 looking at shows changes that we agreed to with the U.S.
16 Trustee shown against the ADS file version and they both 17 related to the limitation of liability for a committee -- 18 the oversight committee member as it relates to exculpation.
19 In 4.6, the U.S. Trustee asked us to delete the first 20 paragraph, which we agreed to. And in the second sentence, 21 Your Honor, the qualification for not being sued in taking 22 action in connection with the plan -- the agreement, is that 23 the member is in good faith.

24 THE COURT: Yes.

25 MR. MURLEY: The next change, Your Honor, is in

1 the next tab on the Standard of Care in 7.1, and there we 2 accepted the U.S. Trustee's language wholesale.

3 THE COURT: Okay.

4 MR. MURLEY: So, with that, Your Honor, those 5 changes the U.S. Trustee and the committee are resolved as 6 to the form of the liquidating trust agreement.

7 THE COURT: Very good. Thank you.

8 MR. MURLEY: Thank you.

9 MS. SARKESSIAN: Your Honor, could I just make a 10 short statement on the record?

11 THE COURT: Of course you can.

12 MS. SARKESSIAN: Again, for the record, Juliet
13 Sarkessian on behalf of the U.S. Trustee. We certainly 14 appreciate the committee making the changes we requested to 15 the litigation trust agreement. I stand to make the point 16 that the first time the litigation trust agreement -- am I 17 saying it right? Is it litigation trust or liquidating 18 trust?

19 MR. MURLEY: Liquidating.

20 MS. SARKESSIAN: Liquidating, liquidating trust
21 agreement was filed was October the 2nd, earlier this week, 22 which is after the voting deadline. As Your Honor is aware, 23 local rules require a plan supplement to be filed seven days 24 before the voting deadline. Just filed. It doesn't even 25 get served on the creditors that are voting on the plan, but

1 at least the notice tells them hopefully to look for the 2 plan supplement.

3 Honestly, from the U.S. Trustee's point, they 4 should be attached to the plan. But if it's going to be in 5 the plan supplement, it's got to be in the plan supplement 6 seven days before. They also did not identify who the 7 liquidating trustee was. But this is an important document 8 and getting it after the voting deadline, it's obviously not 9 available for anybody to look at in connection with the 10 voting. So, that is why I stand up to make that statement.
11 We really, really encourage parties to file a complete plan 12 supplement, at least with all the major documents, from the 13 date that it has to be filed under the rules.

14 THE COURT: You know, without saying too much 15 about it, one thing that I'm learning is that attention to 16 deadlines is -- it's scattered, in general. And, you know, 17 particularly with a plan where you're asking creditors to 18 effectively enter into a contract, they need the 19 information. I appreciate you very much rising to point out 20 the issue. But just in general, we need people to do a 21 little better with observing these sorts of deadlines.
22 They're very, very important.

23 MS. SARKESSIAN: Something we absolutely agree on.
24 Thank you.

25 THE COURT: Yeah. Okay.

1 MR. HALL: Your Honor, if I may? This is not 2 something that was in the plan. It is something that we 3 will figure out whether it goes in the plan or some other 4 document. But I just wanted to put on the record -- and I 5 think Mr. Mannal will be able to confirm -- that this is -- 6 that I've got it right. But in connection with one of the 7 changes that Mr. Comerford took you through at Section 9.10, 8 Page 60 of the plan redline, it was the language relating to 9 holding Workers' Compensation money.

10 THE COURT: Yes.

11 MR. HALL: Okay. That was an issue I think that 12 Mr. Comerford mentioned was the last issue that we were 13 discussing in resolving just before the hearing commenced 14 and why we had asked for the additional 15 minutes.
15 Essentially, what happened there is there was a disagreement 16 between the committee and Compeer as to an aspect of the 17 stipulation that the Court had entered into in August, and 18 the way that we determined to resolve that was to yield to 19 Compeer's interpretation of the stipulation and reinsert the 20 language in 9.10.

21 But the consequence of that would be that the 22 committee and its constituent creditors would be out 23 approximately $200,000 as a result. And the way we're going 24 to solve for that is to defer $200,000 of professional fees
25 and that's going to be shared ratably 50K each by Dechert,

1 Katten, Potter Anderson and PWC. And we'll defer that 2 pending the outcome of what happens with that Workers' Comp
3 holdback that is reflected in 9.10. And if it works out
4 that that money gets completely consumed, those $200,000
5 will go to the benefit of the general unsecured creditors
6 and will never be collected by the professionals. If it 7 turns out that less than $384,000 of that money is consumed, 8 then the creditors would have the benefit of the $200,000 9 from -- if you will, from 9.10, and the professionals will 10 be paid their fees.

11 THE COURT: Okay.

12 MR. HALL: But I just wanted that to be clear for 13 the record. It's not something that's in any document 14 anywhere. It's not on the docket and what have you. It 15 literally happened within an hour or so before the hearing.
16 And subject to Mr. Manal's confirmation, I believe I've 17 articulated it correctly.

18 Oh, and I would say one more thing. That that 19 $200,000 in deferred fees is for the benefit of general 20 unsecured creditors, and Compeer has agreed to both that and 21 has acknowledged that under the budget, as we have it today, 22 they will be contributing the full amount of their -- I
23 think it's called the guaranteed amount in the stipulation 24 but it's the full amount of the $750,000 holdback.

25 THE COURT: Okay, thank you.

1 MR. MANNAL: Your Honor, Doug Mannal from Dechert
2 on behalf of the committee. Your Honor, I just want to take 3 this time to maybe take a step backwards. And as Mr. Hall 4 at the outset of the hearing said, the committee does not 5 oppose entry of the confirmation order today. This was not 6 an easy decision. This is a very difficult case. A 7 difficult case for all stakeholders. Compeer, the secured
8 creditor here is getting a 30-cent recovery. I think 9 they've lost upwards of $70 million in their investment.

10 But it's particularly difficult for unsecured 11 creditors and a lot of the smaller creditors that exist in 12 this case that we're working hard to obtain recoveries for 13 and increase their recoveries. When we started this case, I 14 think they were set to get about 2 cents, 2 or 3 cents. And 15 we've increased that to an 11-cent, an 11-14 cent recovery, 16 as advertised in the disclosure statement. That wasn't 17 easy. It's comprised of a lot of different buckets. It's 18 $1.9 million from remaining assets, it's a $750,000 19 contribution by Compeer that's currently being held in 20 escrow, and it's a settlement with insiders. And that 21 equates to a little over $3 million for distribution to 22 unsecured creditors that will go to the trust and be 23 distributed.

24 I do want to just confirm, however, that one of 25 the key ingredients to that settlement is the $750,000

1 contribution by Compeer that's being held in escrow. There
2 was a dispute, as Mr. Hall said, this morning about cash 3 that would otherwise be available for unsecured creditors.
4 We have agreed to put back the language in the plan that the 5 stipulation does not supersede that language in the plan.
6 But with the agreement that that 750 is available.

7 And, as Mr. Hall said, the fourth way we're going 8 to get back to the $3.15 million that was agreed to on 9 Friday is by the professionals who ranted it for 10 compensation. So, I just that Compeer confirm on the record 11 that that $750,000 is going to be released into escrow for 12 the benefit of unsecured creditors. Thank you, Your Honor.

13 THE COURT: Thank you.

14 MR. GLASNOVICH: Good afternoon, Your Honor. Drew 15 Glasnovich from Stinson, here on behalf of Compeer 16 Financial.

17 THE COURT: It's good to see you, Mr. Glasnovich.

18 MR. GLASNOVICH: Good to see you as well.

19 THE COURT: Thank you.

20 MR. GLASNOVICH: This case has been really hard 21 fought and the deals that we have have been very 22 complicated, and I appreciate the parties this morning 23 coming together to make sure that we can move forward today.
24 I did confirm with Mr. Hall in writing and copied the 25 committee on Compeer's agreement that the way the budget

1 stands today, and that budget I think has been circulated to 2 the parties, Compeer acknowledges that under that budget it 3 will be providing the full $750,000 that it had agreed to.

4 If Your Honor recalls, that number could go one 5 way or the other depending on certain budget outcomes. We 6 understand based on the current budget that that will 7 require Compeer to put in the full 750. That said, the 8 language in I think it's 910 that was taken out this morning
9 will go back in, and the Work Comp fund language will go 10 back in. And we appreciate the professionals putting in the 11 $200,000 to kind of make that work for everybody.

12 THE COURT: Thank you. Thank you. Yeah, I
13 appreciate the comments from the committee and from Compeer.
14 There has been a lot of pain in this case and I wouldn't 15 want to forget about the employees. I understand that the 16 job losses were in excess of a thousand employees. But I
17 thank the -- I want to recognize the efforts of everybody 18 involved to increase the distribution to creditors and the 19 sacrifices that some of the parties are making. Is the 20 argument closed on the plan?

21 MR. HALL: Your Honor, yes, the debtors have 22 nothing further.

23 THE COURT: Okay. And does the U.S. Trustee have 24 anything further?

25 MS. SARKESSIAN: No, Your Honor.

1 THE COURT: Okay. I want to take a few moments to 2 gather my notes and why don't we come back on the record at 3 1:15, unless the parties would like a longer break to go to 4 lunch or anything of that sort.

5 MR. HALL: From our perspective, Your Honor, we 6 defer the Court.

7 THE COURT: Yeah, okay. Well, let's push it
8 through then. We'll recess until 1:15.

9 (Recess)

10 THE COURT: Okay, I'm prepared to rule on the 11 plan. I want to start by noting that I appreciate the work 12 of the parties and the cooperation that went into it to 13 narrow the issues and come to resolutions on many important 14 issues. And I note that when the plan was solicited, the 15 committee had a statement that said that they urged the 16 creditors to vote against the plan. And I think it's really 17 significant that the committee is here today supporting the 18 plan. And through the work of the parties, the projected 19 recovers to unsecured creditors have increased meaningfully.
20 The projections have increased meaningfully. So, I
21 appreciate that.

22 I'm going to grant final approval of the 23 disclosure statement, and I am going to confirm the fourth-24 amended plan. The opt out versus opt in issue and the 25 question of what constitutes consent are questions that, as

1 we know, are not uncontroversial. But, in my view, if a 2 party receives notice of proposed releases and doesn't 3 object, that party has consented to the releases. As in 4 many other respects, when it comes to bankruptcy, parties 5 are required to be vigilant and defend their rights, and 6 such is the case here. In this case, I find that the opt 7 out, it was conspicuous and some creditors did opt out, 8 which evidences to me that the procedures were effective.

9 The UST raises a number of concerns that I take 10 very seriously and I'm grateful for the outstanding argument
11 from the UST and appreciate the positions that the office 12 takes. The UST raises concerns about the possibility of 13 mail errors preventing parties from receiving notice. But I 14 note that the federal rules of bankruptcy procedure and 15 civil procedure call for mail notice, and there is a 16 rebuttal presumption of receipt when a piece of mail is sent 17 to an addressee. And I think it's the system that we have 18 and it's the one that we have to live with.

19 As for unimpaired creditors, the evidence before 20 me shows that they received notice identifying the release 21 provisions of the plan, directing them on how to receive 22 copies of the full plan if they wished, free of cost, and 23 identified procedures for objecting to being a releasing 24 party. And I find this to be adequate and also find that 25 any unimpaired creditor who received such notice and did not

1 object has consented to the release that they are granting.

2 I find the scope of the third party releases to 3 generally be appropriate but I raise an issue about third
4 party releases only extending to unknown claims, and I 5 believe it should extend to known claims as well.

6 Also, to the extent there are parties receiving 7 releases that are, in effect, illusory because they already 8 benefit from exculpation, or in the case of a liquidating 9 trustee, there can be no pre-effective date claims to 10 release, the drafting may be overzealous. And I won't fault 11 anybody for that, but there is no harm.

12 So, on those grounds, I am confirming the plan.
13 There is the one revision I identified and I think there may 14 be others coming, but I would ask the parties to submit the 15 -- well, to file a further amended plan if that's what we're 16 doing and also to submit the proposed form of order as 17 revised under certification of counsel so that it appears on 18 the docket. And I have had a chance to review it and I will 19 enter the order. But, again, I do want to emphasize my 20 appreciation to the Office of the United States Trustee for 21 their argument. It is a very important issue and one that I 22 take very, very seriously. And I think it's my first time 23 ruling on the issue.

24 MR. HALL: Your Honor, if I may, just to make sure 25 I understand? We will add known in addition to unknown in

1 the third party releases. Are we to alter any of the 2 parties that are included in the third party releases?

3 THE COURT: No.

4 MR. HALL: Thank you, Your Honor. Appreciate it.

5 THE COURT: Okay. Is there anything else for 6 today?

7 MS. GOOD: No, Your Honor, nothing else for today.
8 Thank you for your ruling. We will incorporate those 9 changes, file the further amended plan and the confirmation 10 order under certification of counsel and have that 11 (indiscernible)...

12 THE COURT: Okay, thank you. I appreciate the 13 extremely well-briefed and argued issues that were before me
14 today. It's great. Very helpful to the Court. So, I 15 appreciate it all. And with that, I wish everybody a good 16 day and we are adjourned.

17 MS. GOOD: Thank you, Your Honor.

18 MR. HALL: Thank you, Your Honor.

19

20 * * * * *

21

22

23

24

25

C E R T I F I C A T I O N

I, Sonya Ledanski Hyde, certified that the foregoing transcript is a true and accurate record of the proceedings.

Sonya Ledanski Hyde

Veritext Legal Solutions

330 Old Country Road

Suite 300

Mineola, NY 11501

Date: October 9, 2023